Steamulator. It's got Card's... Other than that I'll take a pass on this one as it's doesn't feel comfortable to Play. Gave it a go but never the less :/. This game is too exhausting to finish haha great game though, plays exactly as advertised and has lots of levels!. This is a tactical rpg that is constantly getting updates that fix issues and improve the quality of the game over time. It is similar to what you would expect from an SRPG studio game in the early game, with two chapters being outright copies of the maps from the sample game SRPG Studio gives you to experiment with. Later on, however, the game grows in quality and becomes an enjoyable experience.

The only serious negative I have is towards the stats in the game. The game doesn't explain any of them and the only reason why I figured which ones influenced which is because I had a copy of SRPG Studio and played a ton of Fire Emblem.

Overall, I like this game. For such a low price, you get a decent tactical rpg with multiple routes.. To get a very detailed overview of Bridge Constructor in general, please read my Bridge Constructor and Bridge Constructor Medieval reviews (they are essentially the same as far as core game and concept go).

Bridge Constructor Playground is better than Medieval, but worse than the original.

There you go. If you get it, get it in a bundle or for like a buck. Otherwise you will be dissapointed.. Should have been part of the main game and should have had better maps. The best one is porbably the Clock Tower from Revelations. The rest are almost awful.

This is the software God uses to make galaxies. Play in room scale so you can throw the star matter to form your own nebulae. Balance them on the end of your controller and maneuver them to your mouth and eat them. All the while listening to your favorite psychedelic music. Pink Floyd's "Wish You Were Here" works just perfect. Gotta try The Grateful Dead's "American Beauty" next. An essential Vive experience.. my goats :(. Wow. Handles even worse than Driveclub.

It does have a cockpit view though.. Unless you enjoy talking balls that make engine sounds and jump around in a small arena, I would not get this game. I only paid $0.29 for it, but I just don't like it. I closed the game after 5 minutes and never played it again.. Distracted from this novel, just a few minutes to write a review. I did not play much until it was enough, but it was enough to experience emotions already. Interestingly, the game is based on real events or is it an invention?. Game of the Year 2019

my parents divorced me but still 10/10
